About Aamana

Having throttled through two recessions the key element has been to remain creative to survive downfall economic events. Having a solid support network and power team, I have built a successful property career with very minimum money invested.

It is always a great time to buy property for the long haul, foundation to capital appreciation. In the interim a decent net monthly cash flow is highly desirable and a serious consideration of thought process when buying (and renting) properties - location is key too!

My passion for property began over twenty years ago. In the early few years of my property career, every month I saved my salary to buy properties below market value. I am passionate about the work I do, honestly it is more of a hobby which makes it FUN through challenging times.

I am an entrepreneur through and through. Starting from the very bottom has helped me stay focused and grounded. I find by retaining a realistic upbeat about life helps me stay motivated. Self-education is key to personal growth. Knowledge is power only when we take action. Mindset is a vital ingredient. I am a true believer where there's a will, there is always a way.

Mission

- Build on my current strategies and invest time in continuous learning, everyday.
- Scale my businesses, by creating employment and increasing current portfolios.
- Generate handsome cash flow from monthly rentals, equity enhances and give back to individuals to build their basic facilities humanity needs.
